

Early Intervention Unit

Resolving family law issues before they get serious

Who we are

The Legal Aid NSW Family Law Early Intervention Unit (EIU) is a specialist family law service. We can help you to sort out your family law issues as early as possible before they become serious. Seeing an early intervention lawyer may help you better understand the choices you have. Sometimes you can make an agreement with the other people involved and sort things out quickly and simply.

We are separate from other Legal Aid NSW family lawyers. This means we can provide assistance even if you are in dispute with someone who is receiving help from another Legal Aid NSW office. If you need ongoing legal assistance, we can help you apply for a grant of legal aid in order to see a private lawyer.

Who we help

We can help whether you are a mum, dad, grandparent or other family member. When you meet with us you can bring a person you trust such as a counsellor or close friend or family member.

What we can help you with

- Problems seeing your children.
- Arrangements to look after children within the family.
- Property problems after separation.
- Child support.
- Problems with the Department of Communities and Justice (DCJ) (once called FaCS or DOCS).

We can assist you to apply for a grant of legal aid and connect you with other legal aid lawyers, court duty lawyers, private practitioners, or family mediation services.

Services we provide

- Legal advice and information.
- Finding a family mediation service.
- Finding a lawyer to represent you in an ongoing case if you are eligible for legal aid.
- Helping you to apply for a grant of legal aid.
- Referring you to court duty services.
- Writing a letter, or contacting an agency, such as a government department on your behalf.

To find out about your nearest EIU service, call or make an appointment on 1800 551 589. In some cases, we can also arrange to provide you with advice by telephone.

Help at court

We have duty lawyers at Federal Circuit and Family Court of Australia (FCFCOA) locations to help at court if you don't have a lawyer. In some cases we can assist you to prepare urgent applications for court, where a child is at risk of harm.

Help around NSW

We have lawyers in more than 40 locations in Sydney and around NSW to provide family law advice and assistance.

Family Relationship Centres

We work in partnership with a number of Family Relationship Centres in Sydney and greater New South Wales, to provide advice and assistance to those considering and/or working through a mediation process.

Help for Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people

We provide assistance to Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people in all our outreach locations. We also provide assistance at some specific Aboriginal services. To find out about the nearest service to you call 1800 551 589.

Help if English is not your first language

We provide family law advice services at a number of locations for people from culturally and linguistically diverse backgrounds. We can book you an interpreter when you make an appointment.

You can contact the Early Intervention Unit for more information about our services. Call us on 1800 551 589 or email us at eiuadminstaff@legalaid.nsw.gov.au.

This publication is a general guide to the law. You should not rely on it as legal advice, and we recommend that you talk to a lawyer about your situation.

The information is correct at the time of printing, however it may change. For more information contact LawAccess NSW on 1300 888 529.

This brochure is available in Arabic, Simplified Chinese, Dari/Farsi, Spanish and Vietnamese.

© Legal Aid Commission of NSW 2022

Order brochures online at:

www.legalaid.nsw.gov.au/publications

For more information about Legal Aid NSW services:

Do you need help to contact us?

If you need an interpreter, call the Translating and Interpreting Service (TIS National) on 131 450 (9am – 5pm) and ask for LawAccess NSW.

Do you find it hard to hear or speak?

If you find it hard to hear or speak, call us through the National Relay Service (NRS) on 133 677 and ask for LawAccess NSW or visit:

www.relayservice.gov.au